There is one crucial element that all long drivers of the ball do in order to maximize their distance, and this same important factor improves accuracy as well. I will explain briefly the technical details of what needs to occur to hit longer and straighter drives. I will provide you with drills to help you achieve the proper launch conditions in order to maximize your distance. I will spend some one-on-one time with each person and let you practice and hit drives; working on the few things that are important to maximizing distance and accuracy.
